Tasting notes

Wild cherries, sloes and spice on a gorgeous nose that leads seamlessly to a rich and savoury palate. Harmonious, poised and with lovely energy and drive, a little touch of licquorice adds further complexity in a wild and sweeping finale. Drink from 2013.

Reviews

93 points (Allen Meadows' Burghound Issue 30 - tasted 01 April 2008) - This is perhaps the most reserved wine in the range aromatically and it required aggressive swirling to coax even grudging aromas of red and blue pinot fruit with violet hints that precede ripe, pure and very serious broad-shouldered flavors that possess a beguiling texture and impressive mid-palate concentration that still does not completely buffer the firm, long and chewy finish. This is a big wine that will require plenty of cellar patience. Drink 2018+ Additional Tasting

Today the estate boasts 130 hectares of vines, of which 12 are classed Grand Cru and 74 classed as Premier Cru.
