Tasting notes

As ever the Guinaudeaus have made a superlative wine. Real care and attention have been taken to not over extract and the result is supple, soft and velvety. This restraint gives the wine a poise and delicacy which is incredibly appealing. The aromas lift out of the glass bringing cassis, herbs, violets and peonies with a hint of sweetest spice. The flavours are intense and juicy but manage to be elegant and refined at the same time. The structure is fine and toned, providing the perfect platform for the fruit and perfume. Absolutely magnificent. Drink 2020 - 2035

Reviews

The 2010 Pensées de Lafleur has a fragrant bouquet, hints of tobacco and sous-bois on the entry, a little smoke combining with light black fruit. It demands coaxing from the glass – certainly not as immediate as the 2009. The palate is medium-bodied with a touch of bell pepper on the entry. The acidity is keen, almost citric, with a tightly wound, slightly taciturn finish that is very fresh and animated. Not quite sure if it possesses the depth for a truly long-term Pensées, but it is certainly delicious to drink now and over the next 10 years. Tasted November 2012. Score: 90 Neal Martin

About the producer

Guineaudeau family tends a 4.5-hectare vineyard at Château Lafleur, crafting limited quantities of majestic Château Lafleur and Les Pensées wines. The unique soils, including sandy-clay gravels, clay gravels, and gravelly sands, contribute to the exceptional character of Château Lafleur. The family's dedication extends to the Lafleur Bouchet, propagated from 1956 frost surviving plants, while their quest for perfection led to a superior Sauvignon Blanc from Sancerre, resulting in the outstanding white Bordeaux, Les Champs Libres, blended from four different parcels.
