Tasting notes

---

An harmonious wine with lovely supple flavours and an attractive freshness on the finish. The aromas are bright and expansive with peaches and apricots and hints of fig. The palate is full of supple white peach and apricot flavours with an underlying mineral quality which leads through to the long finish. Drink from 2018.

About the producer

Spending any time with Nicolas Potel in Burgundy can't help but to make even the most ardent of critics a lifelong convert. Nicolas is another man of boundless energy but his approach is very organic, adhering to the natural rhythms wherever possible. Such an unforced, careful, natural and sensitive approach is reflected perfectly in his wine and Nicolas has brought a breath of fresh air to Burgundy over the last decade and more. Quite simply, he remains one of Burgundy's brightest talents.
