Tasting notes

This is very refreshing and persistent with chalky citrus aromas and lovely length on the palate. Pithy citrus flavours mingle with grapefruits, lemons and a spicy mineral quality. This will age well for five or more years but will also be delicious soon after release. Drink from 2015.

Reviews

The 2012 Puligny-Montrachet Village comes from a parcel within the lieu-dit "La Rue aux Vaches" that was planted in 1957. It offers a lively, dewy, green apple bouquet with a touch of flint. The palate is well endowed for a village cru with plenty of ripe hazelnut-tinged citric fruit, a fine line of acidity and good presence on the long, satisfying finish. Excellent. Score: 90 points Neal Martin (WA)

About the producer

One of the producers that expresses more than others the spirit of Chassagne Montrachet. With pure, elegant wines that are always approachable in youth but have an incredible capacity of ageing and developing in the cellar for decades. Jean-Marc and Claudine Blain consistently produce some exemplary wines at village level and release some of the most sought-after Grand Crus from their tiny holdings of Caillerets.
